

CRep180

📅 Thu, May 08, 2025 8:29PM ⌚ 2:17:08

SUMMARY KEYWORDS

Knights Templar, Brazil cave, UFO research, Tyler Roberts, International UFO Bureau, NASA whistleblower, Dr Gregory Rogers, UFO community, UFO sightings, Templar symbols, Portuguese Navy, Templar treasure, Inquisition, Jesuit priests, Templar history., Templar history, suppression of records, Portugal, family records, Templar agenda, sovereign nation, religious harmony, Catholic Church, Crusaders, Magna Carta, ruling families, stonemasons, DNA testing, Renaissance, Opus Dei.

SPEAKERS

Speaker 6, Speaker 2, Speaker 4, Speaker 3, Speaker 1, Speaker 5

S

Speaker 1 00:17

Coming to you from the city of the weir, exploring topics from the esoteric and unexplored to dimensions unknown, shining a light of truth on the darkest corners of our reality. Welcome to the curious realm. You Well, hello everybody, and welcome to this very special pre episode of The Curious realm. I'm so very excited for our episode tonight we have some great guests. In the second part, we will be hearing from Kathleen ball about the Knights Templar and some of her new research regarding a Knights Templar cave that she found in Brazil in the first part of our show. We are very, very pleased to welcome Tyler Roberts. He is the host of total disclosure. He's involved with the International UFO Bureau, who we have had on before, and recently had a NASA whistleblower. Dr Gregory Gregory Rogers on here's a small clip of that with Mr. Rogers stops me and you know, at the time, my first inclination was, I don't want to bother with whatever the guy's doing. But he was kind of insistent, and said, it'll just take a few minutes. I've got to show you this thing. So I foolishly went inside with Him, and He locked the door, closed the louvers. As soon as he did that, I said, Why are you doing that? He said, Well, we need to do this, and now I don't want to give all that away. Welcome back, or welcome to our show. Tyler Roberts, how are you doing, my friend, it's been great catching back up with you today, all kinds of stuff. Congratulations on the big whistle blower drop. That was, that was absolutely fantastic. You've been getting some great views on that. And what a proud moment for I UFO be coming out of the gate with that.

S

Speaker 2 01:27

S

Speaker 1 02:04

02:28

Before we, yeah, before we get into the interview

Speaker 1 02:33

that tell us a little bit about yourself. How did, how did you get into the world of podcasting to begin with? How did you come to the world of UFO and UF UFO research,

Speaker 3 02:41

yeah. And thank you. Thank you so much. That was a great that was a great introduction and a great great clip to put up there to tease it a little bit that amazing conversation. And you know, I'm so thankful for to the bureau, to the international UFO Bureau, to Dr Gregory Rogers for having the bravery step forward. I think in this community, you know, it can be hard for people to come forward because, you know, there is that, that added layer of stigma to Stig, stigma and ridicule that you will face like it's, it's not something that's, you know, maybe going to happen. It's when is it going to happen. So again, you know, a lot of that respect will have to go to Dr Rogers, but yeah, how did I start? I think, I mean, for the first time, I remember the first time I saw a movie in the theater. I don't even remember what movie it was, but I remember feeling so much during the film. And you know, the conditions of a movie theater, you know, dark, right? The big screen larger than life. The and then the feelings it gave me were larger than life and larger than feelings that I've had, you know, out and about as a kid. So when I first saw my first movie, I said to myself, I want to do that. I want to make people have emotion and have those feelings. So, you know, I never wanted to be a policeman, I never wanted to be an astronaut, right? I never wanted to be a whistleblower, I never wanted to do any of those things. I just always wanted to make movies and be in media. And that's really where it all kicked off, of course. And you know, I think as artists, as creators, we are the ones that are naturally going to start asking the bigger questions, yeah, you know, obvious. A lot of people, the UFO community, are, you know, some sort of artist as well, musician, filmmaker, you know, just a writer, right? Journalist, researcher, you know, there's some sort. Of creativity or some sort of Spark there. And, you know, I was always the person at the party who might have, but not, might not have been at the beer pong table, but I was definitely in the corner with my friends talking about whether, you know, the world was going to end in 2012 Yeah.

05:15

No, that was me as well. Yeah,

Speaker 3 05:18

yeah. So I had a, I had a, my mom, you know, she's a big part of my story in terms of, you know, how I got here and why I stay here. And you know, she, she passed away in 2021, but know, now I got here and why I stay here. And, you know, she, she passed away in 2021, her death date is actually 43210, wow. Which is odd in itself, yeah. But there's so much more to it. And you know, she, she, she's a big part of who I am, who I became. You know, she always, because when I was younger, I she always had this thing about her where she would every once in a while, she'd like, Hey, want to stay home from school. And of course, as a kid, you're like, Yeah, of course, I want to stay home, and then, you know, I just be hanging with her. And you know, must have been, it was after 911 but before Middle School. So, you know, okay, I must have been like fifth grade or something like that. And so I'm outside at, I remember Regis and Kelly was at 9am that ended around 10. I I'd say a couple hours could have went by, but I I was at that time in the day where I was now waiting for the kids to come home, right? I was waiting for them to get off the bus. I was outside of my house, not this house where I am now, but my parents house, and I was tossing a tennis ball up onto the roof, and the way it would come down off the slope, you can almost, like, play catch with yourself. And it was cool, you know, obviously the sad thing saying it out loud. But, I mean, you know, we didn't have cell phones then we didn't have all the stuff we have now. And I was mid throw, and I'm looking straight up because I'm trying to bring the ball, you know, to the roof. So I'm, I'm pitched like, looking up and a flying saucer comes literally. And when I say flying saucer, I'm talking about your classic, wow, disc, classic, gun metal, gray with three points on it that, like, you know, maybe three lights. I don't, they weren't on because it was, it was broad daylight. So they, you know, they weren't illuminated, but if you drew like a line to each circle, it would make a triangle. So picture the circle with like three lights that make a triangle, if you were to, like, draw a line to them. And so the craft is oscillating, but moving forward. Now I grew up next to an Air Force Base. I'm pretty familiar with, even by that time, I'm pretty familiar with what flies and what doesn't. And this thing was tree top level. It was not moving fast enough. And I ran inside. I was like, Mom, I don't know what I just saw. And instead of like, saying, you know, you saw a balloon, or, you know, you didn't see anything at all. She was like, you saw a UFO dude, and she told me all about what the UN UFO was. Wow, how we, how we didn't know. She didn't force a belief system on me, sure, and never. She wasn't religious. My parents aren't too religious. I mean, I definitely think my there's that, I think there was, like, some like, you know, God figure for them, but it wasn't something they forced on us. And, yeah, she brought me to the library the next day because I begged and begged and begged to know more. And that's where the journey started, and that's where movies intersected, right? All right. Now I had a mission, I had a topic, but then my destination ended up as Hollywood. So for a long time I was, I was more in on the media side and the like regular sci fi, Hollywood, okay, I got Marvel DC that I was always drawn to superheroes. They're larger than life, you know. I, you know, maybe envied them a little bit. And sure, yeah, I would say I was always drawn towards sci fi, but that's how I got into to media. And obviously that's how I got into the subject of UFOs. But I stated, you know, again, I was talking about it at parties with people. I was talking about it with my friends when we were smoking joints, like stuff like that. Yeah, you know, we ate a lot of mushrooms in high school, did a lot of, did a lot of experimentation with the with the things that will, will definitely enhance your ability to see beyond the veil. Indigents, yeah, yes. So, you know, I'm a lot more reserved now, but you know, I would still if someone had DMT like consider me locked and loaded on the rock on the boat. Yeah, I did buy Ayahuasca. Journey last year. I've definitely, definitely DMT, yeah, yeah, it's something totally different. I had an experience years ago with and it's one of those that I bring up on the show, mainly because it's, it's one that, you know, when people have shared experience, it's so funny how regularly they do not talk about it. And me and my buddy from high school had a night, it was New Year's Eve, things like that, and we the few things were involved. But the neighbor was an autistic kid, very high functioning from our high school, but one that was like, savant with numbers, things like that, with us that night, just riding his bike as we went to the gas station to pick up more beer, and we saw this huge, amorphous black object. It was not it was an object in the sky, but it wasn't like, like your sighting, or like so many where it's like, this is a defined shape. It was just this amorphous thing that was probably the size of a couple city busses stacked on top of each other, just moving through the sky of Houston, blocking out stars behind it and things like that. Houston, we have a problem. We literally wrote it off to few things were involved when we went back to my buddy's house the next New Year's Eve, Ari, the neighbor, was there, stuck his face up over the fence. It was like, Hey guys, you think we'll see something in the sky like we did last year, and you're like, that kid was not Whoa. He was sober as a goat.

S

Speaker 1 09:58

S

Speaker 3 11:31

S

Speaker 1 11:35

Yeah, yeah. We hadn't really talked about it until just recently, he writes, like, short form horror and things like that. And just texted me one day and was like, Hey, man, I just wrote a story about that, about that. Like, do you remember that night? Am I crazy? Do you remember that night? And I'm like, Absolutely, I remember that night.

S

Speaker 3 11:55

Isn't that? Like, isn't it? It's, it's, you know, how many people I interview where they'll be telling a story, and you probably had this experience many times as well. But how many times? How? How often is it? I'd say far too often, that when there is a shared experience, it's almost like it's almost like something in the moment. Of course, you experience it. But then it's when it's over, it's almost just like, something turns off, and you go back to do in regular life, and, yeah, you never, you don't talk like, you don't talk amongst yourselves about it, like, dude, what? What was that? And then it's, you know, it comes up some years later, and you're like, wait, you did see that? I thought I was crazy. Yeah, you know. And it's like, how many times is that the case? And you got to ask, is that by design regular? Because, yeah, and it's just, it's so weird

S

Speaker 1 12:48

well, and it's strange sometimes, in one of the cases I bring up with that regularly is Terry Lovelace, again,

S

Speaker 3 12:56

you know it's funny as I'm telling that he's who I'm thinking of, yeah, because

S

Speaker 1 13:02

he's, I mean, he's, he's one of those, like, he was an EMT in the army, that that's like riding as a cop. Like you see things when you're an EMT and when you're rolling with a partner as an EMT, you you really see things like, you attend deaths, things like that, like you're trying to save people's lives, that kind of stuff. You've seen some things much less, if you're an EMT in the army, well, that kind of stuff, and the fact that their shared experience eventually drove them apart because they didn't talk about it, yeah, n

13:32

and that's the thing. I think it's almost like,

S

Speaker 3 13:36

sorry, it's almost, I think it's almost, I don't know if it's pride or if it's fear of ridicule, or you know that that notion of like self preservation, like disassociating from it completely, because if you were to to, if you were to accept that it happened, you might be thinking, I'm crazy. Yeah, I must be crazy, right? So if I admit that it happened, then I am crazy. So it didn't happen. I'm not crazy.

S

Speaker 1 14:08

Well, it's easier to reconcile that. It's easier. I mean, feel free to correct me if I'm wrong. Anybody in the audience viewing on in chat, whatever, tell me, if you aren't just willing to hide something in utter shame and tell nobody, not even tell your significant other things like that, you know, I mean,

S

Speaker 3 14:30

you know, it's a thing and, and I'll say this because you talked About the EMT thing and being around Death and All right, so fast forward a couple years, obviously, but I've been doing, I'd been doing the movie podcast and radio and interviews for, I would say, three or four years by that time, and my. Got sick with cancer. She actually, I remember, it's a very weird synchronicity here, and I it's only a synchronicity now that I look back on it, because the day that I started my first podcast, I'm talking recorded my first episode. Yeah, I was about to hit record on the camera, and I got a call from my brother that my mom had been sick. She had been diagnosed with breast cancer. And then I went into the episode, and, you know, looking back on it, I still have the episode, and I frequently went back and tried to look at my face and tried to see what was there, because I was there. Of course, I have video evidence I was there, yeah, I was not there, yeah, I I must have checked out, but the show went amazingly, and I fell in love with podcasting, and, you know, kind of getting out of the movie realm. And, you know, that was the first time I'd fall in love with with this new art form that was podcasting. And my, the co host that episode, you know, really carried the show. And I think he was able to take me out of it. But, I mean, I it was, it's very weird looking back on it, because then I was in the middle of an episode, and I my, this is some, obviously the day my mom died, some years later, where I was doing the episode, and I had the, you know, actually, oh, and, you know, ironically, Owen gleiberman was on the show. And anyone that you might be familiar with his name, because he's the chief film critic of variety, and he recently, like now, he just wrote a hit piece, basically on that age of disclosure, because they he was there at the South by Southwest, yeah. And variety. Variety kind of ripped on, on, on that film, saying it's just, yeah, it's just another, you know, it's, there's no evidence. It's just

S

Speaker 1 17:09

just another milk toast document, ironically, ironically,

S

Speaker 3 17:14

someone, someone who I never thought I was going to interact with at all. Again, that episode, I was recording it with him, and it was live, and my sister called me, like seven times in a row. And she never does that. She never, ever, ever did that. And I took the call, and, you know, I had to get back to my parents house, my mom, that was, it was going to be the day, and I was in the room with her when she passed, and I looked at her, and she was there. You know, she was definitely there because, you know, we had already talked. I'm kind of fast forwarding just because this is a really dry note story now, but I'm anyone will know this when you're looking at a person, you know their soul is there. Then something happened where I looked down for just a millisecond, maybe, and by the time I came back up, this orb crosses my field division and goes out the window, pops up, and I look back, and my mother's now gone. Oh, wow, I'm pretty sure, wow. My hypothesis is either something came and got her, or that was her leaving. I don't know which of these are my hypothesis, but sure that is the moment I started total disclosure. That moment when I saw that orb, is when everything from my past, every single moment my my years of alcoholism, my toxic hollywood, all of it, I just fucking threw it away. I was like no more beautiful man, gone, gone. Yeah. And total disclosure was born that minute, because my mom was once again showing me the truth.

S

Speaker 1 19:11

Wow, that. And what a beautiful testimony to that, you know, yeah, and not only to to that moment, but to the relationship with your mother, to for that catharsis, to come through that moment of mission. You

U

19:27

S

Speaker 3 19:29

know, yeah. And the mission was clear, yeah, find out, yeah.

S

Speaker 1 19:33

And it's, it's interesting how moments like that can lead you to those life changing moments where, where a totally different decision comes about much, much like any paranormal experience, you know, it's, it's one of those, there's, there's something that just changes when, when you go through that, and it's, it's something that I've that I've mentioned, whether it's paranormal crypt, yeah, you. FFO. It's, it's one of those. And the hypothesis I bring up is the idea of being near a craft that would, that would, frequency wise, change you the same way as a watch is changed by a magnet, you know, it tells time differently from that point on. You know, maybe,

S

Speaker 3 20:20

and maybe, just maybe, that, you know, because after those moments, the world is no longer black and white. That's right. It is absolutely the furthest thing from that, because now you see, oh shit, there's a lot of gray, yeah. And things change quick. That's, I call it the moment of conversion. It's when you go from, you know, is this real to, holy shit, this is, this is real. Well, yeah, right, yeah. It's plain and simple. And, you know, for most people, most people, I would say, if they if the moment is that is as dramatic as it usually is, aside from the people that that, like we talked about, they're like, I'm not even touching this. I'm not talking about it ever again. It never happened. It never you know, those people do exist there. They're mostly religious. Sorry, I apologize. Okay, it's okay. They're organized religious. Then that's the that's the thing. That's okay. I understand. It's hard not to have things or want things in a box. Boxes are nice and pretty. They contain things in a very, very clean way.

S

Speaker 1 21:34

S

Speaker 3 21:41

Yeah, so because, and my whole, my whole thing here is we have to understand that we, you know, the biggest lie we're told from a very, very young age is that, that, that we look at our parents like, they're like, they're all knowing, like, they're they're, they have all the answers. Most of the time. We have some sort of adult figure that we look at. We're like, Yeah, well, they know everything. Like, I'm going to get to that point where I know everything just like them, and we look at them like gods or, you know, because that would make us heroes or villains, and it makes it all more a little bit fanciful, yeah. It's not until much later we realize that they're just human beings, and they're winging it day by day. They have no fucking clue what's going on. That's right, just like the rest of us. Yeah? And it's when you come to realize that all of this, right, all of this is, I mean, it's, it's a cosmic blip, right? It's our we are special, but we are also not unique. That's right, that's right. So I think it's perspective, yeah, I think it is because then you learn to make the most out of what you have right this moment, and you stop focusing on if there is a heaven or hell. Yeah. Look, it doesn't matter. I'm going to enjoy right now. That's what I know I have. Yeah, yeah, precisely, and that, that's what mission is all about. You know, the idea of, like, what can we do right now so that we can leave a legacy for tomorrow, yeah, because that's all you ultimately have control of, is what, how the world views, how the world views you when you're gone. That's, that's pretty much it, you know. So what? What have you done to help build community instead of tear it down? What have, what have you done to, you know, help further the world things like that example, you know. And I'll give everyone in the UFO community example right now. Sure, we just lost Earl Gray Anderson. Yeah, that guy will be, he, he will, yes, he was a mentor of mine. And same, you know, I never met the guy face to face. Never met the guy face to face, but him and I talked on the phone very anytime we were on the phone, it was three hours long. Yeah, came on the podcast so many times I can't count that guy. That guy was nothing but positive. He wanted, and he he did this for the love of the game, that's right, he will go down in history, in ufology, history, UFO history, as you know, a great researcher, a great friend, and someone who will be dearly missed. And is, do you want to leave that legacy, or do you want to leave a legacy like Jack SAR Fauci is going to leave ask yourself that question, yeah,

S

Speaker 1 23:11

S

Speaker 3 23:41

24:44

S

Speaker 1 24:46

yeah. And it's, it's, it's interesting even, even whenever you start looking at things, because, you know, there's, there's a lot of shows out there that sensationalize a lot of things. Tyler, um, heck, I used to work for a show that's inside. That's one of my dirty secrets that I was once an on air producer for Alex Jones and Info Wars. Hey, I'm sorry. Hey, man, I'm sorry, buddy. I've also pushed buttons for PETA events. I pushed buttons for their Texas Republican Caucus. Hey, Buttons. That's what I do for a living. You know,

S

Speaker 3 25:16

right? You know what I push I wouldn't even have to forgive you, because I don't see what you did. Is something to be sorry about. Yeah, it's just to learn

S

Speaker 1 25:30

exactly, exactly. And it's one of those like learning that, learning the back side of that. You sure.

25:30

25:36

Can I ask you a question? Absolutely,

25:40

it was all a farce, right?

Speaker 1 25:41

Well, you know what's funny, man, like, I was actively there. It was me and him on air that day. I was running the booth. Richard Belzer was our guest, talking about his JFK assassination book. And Alex was on air when the Boston bombing happened. The Boston Marathon boss bombing happened? Yeah, I live in Boston, and, man, I know, I know. And that was one of those that, like, I watched that from the very beginning through the very end, and it was one of those, like, there was some disturbing stuff that happened during that, where it's like, things that didn't make sense. Like, I actively got the older boxing. The older brother was a boxer, and I got his sparring partner from Florida, his way, his his wife on the show because he was shot in the top of the head by the FBI while they Oh yeah, while they've like, he went, his dad went on the news with a picture of his son's vivisected body. It was like the FBI killed my son while they were interrogating him. She left for Chechnya and never came back. I got her on the show, no, and she was like, I will never come back to this country. They will kill me and my children.

26:57

Like, wow. Dead serious.

Speaker 1 26:59

So there were things like that that happened where it's like that that's real stuff. That was, that was, yeah, I was involved with that. Um, dude, I promise you also say that a lot of what you see on the show is very much crafted. It is. Let's take the news, let's read it and put it through the lens of history. Let's then extrapolate it to the worst case scenario. And when we go to commercial, we're going to sell you a solution for the worst case scenario. That is, that is, that is the setup and the knockdown of the show. Now, if he just read the news and put it through the lens of history, that would be horrifying enough.

Speaker 3 27:42

If he just told the truth. You don't an unbiased way.

Speaker 1 27:46

You don't have to extrapolate to the worst case scenario.

S

Speaker 3 27:49

And here's the thing about Alex, though. And you know, I let's we can get off this just after this. Sure you know, the guy is smart. He is, he people don't give him enough credit. Oh, his things, he's actually been right about, and it's just, I think he really had a problem. And I'm the biggest Forgiver of addiction, you know? I have it. I have it. You know, I I wake up every day on UN cured, un tethered, and I have to make the choice to stay away from a drink or drugs, right? So, you know, for me, I do have sympathy for the alcoholism and just like absolutely wild amount of money that that guy had coming in, but it doesn't excuse you. You have to take ownership for things that you've said, yep. And you know there's one, there's one that we all know about. I won't talk. I won't say the words Yeah. I don't never. But he took one thing too far, yep, and paid the price. And now, now he's doubling down on, on, on everything, because he needs to make up the money that he owes to all these people. And, yeah, I mean, if he's put if he's not pushing snake oil now, I mean, if he wasn't pushing snake oil, then, I mean, God, is he pushing it now? Because that's the dangerous part, you know, and I've, I've guessed it on shows, and it's one of those, like, I actually had a moment of clarity on this show with Rev, Michael J S Carter where and like, Al picked it out and posted it for me. It was so funny, because I was like, you know, you kind of have to be lukewarm with research, yeah. And it's like, I realize why my show sometimes doesn't have a larger audience, and it's because I actively try to demystify things that are happening in the community instead of furthering the fervor behind them.

S

Speaker 1 29:16

S

Speaker 3 29:46

Well, why do you think now, let me, let me ask you this, we have a huge problem in this community. We do and we have a huge problem. Yeah, and there is some and I. I hate to even allude to something like this, but there are a set of people in our community that sit atop the throne, if you will, and if you're not actively endorsing, if you are not actively participating in the narrative, the chosen narrative, the controlled narrative, the DoD approved narrative, yeah, chances are your whistle blowers or your episodes don't get seen, you know, by by the People that understand all of this, but you will never be reached out by someone like Ross. Ross cold heart, yeah, right. I don't want to say Jeremy, because they're they are great people, but there are people in this community that are gatekeeping the narrative. We all know some of them. It's very easy to see, and we need to be careful, because if you, if you're defending your favorite UFO guru, like it's your fantasy football team, you probably have an issue.

S

Speaker 1 31:10

Yep, yep, right? And, you know, it gets that way with anything, man, I say it regularly, even, even whenever it comes to politics, it's like, you know what's funny? Rock star typically doesn't run the label. The front man of the band is typically not the dude running the label. You know, he's the front man for a reason.

 Speaker 3 31:30
Yeah, right, he's, he's a good face, yeah,

 Speaker 1 31:34
precisely. And it's one of those. You do have to be careful, because if you get caught up in the fervor of things. And the prime example that I give regularly on this show is Corey, good,

 31:44
oh, my god,

 Speaker 1 31:48
go down that rabbit hole. It's so easy, you know? That was a cult. It all verges on it, period, you know? And hey, as a former Catholic seminarian, believe me, I can, I can attest to the heart of the the heart of the true believer and the person who is just of faith and and trust, like we watched the documentary on, oh my god, the cult, just Alliance. No, that was yes, Heaven's Gate. And my wife was like, I don't understand it. I was like, I fully understand. Like, I get they were, they were utterly true believers. You know, this was, this was what they believed in their heart of hearts. Was gonna happen for them, like that, yep, I don't more comment,

 Speaker 3 32:35
yeah, yeah. Like, hey, listen, maybe we were all 32:39

me. Maybe we were all wrong. I

 Speaker 3 32:42
was gonna, I was literally just gonna say, who knows? Who really does know when Marshall

 Speaker 1 32:47
Appplewhite greets us at the end, Tyler, then we'll all figure it out.

 Speaker 3 32:54
The hell Bob caught it right? It came for. You know, all the people that did even know do that I mean Bob caught it right? It came by. You know, all the people that did you know do that commit a tragedy? You know, by living people standards, I'm ready. We don't know what. We don't know what that happened. I mean, for all we know they did wake up on the comment, they were like, ah, jokes on all you idiot, right? But that's just it, and that. And, you know, to bring this full bring this first part of the conversation full circle before we move on that that's that's the hard part, even whenever you have faith, even whenever you believe in something, that hard part is sharing that true conviction with somebody else. Because you you may be ridiculed for your true faith. You may be ridiculed for what you believe you know. You may be cast down for what you believe in, and especially when you're talking about whistleblowers, like, that's that's one of the big things we did. A great episode with Earl Gray, whenever the Napolitano and Robin's lawsuit went through for the went through for the Netflix documentary, oh no, I think I lost your audio there. No, you didn't supposed to hear that. Okay, good, my dog got something, and he's currently not supposed to have that something.

S

Speaker 1 33:13

33:59

S

Speaker 3 34:01

34:10

So, yeah, I wonder where.

S

Speaker 1 34:13

But, yeah, the idea, the idea of, what are these things doing to communities, you know what? Is possible, planted information like the things, things like the photo that that Lou Elizondo shared of the chandelier that came from his vetted source. You know, it's like, is that misinformation being injected into the community to cause these rifts?

S

Speaker 3 34:36

Look at the chandelier picture. I mean, boy, is that just the beginning. Because, all right, and listen, I to be the one to but I will be, you know, I, I know some people are afraid to talk about this, but if, if, if you are the head of a tip, okay, and if you are any. UFO guru like Elizondo, right? If you're at the top, you have a New York Times bestseller. By the way, you have to sell an incredible, any, I mean, incredible amount of books to make that list. So, you know, let's consider this guy, what he is, you know, up there with Greer, as far as like a following goes. He ran a government program, allegedly, you know, because a tip was a moniker, right? It was a moniker, and it was a, it was a unclassified way of talking about all SAP, right, without spilling the complete beans, because they wanted to get special access program status. All SAP got the 20 million a tip was probably more like an unfunded hobby desk. And that's okay. I don't know why we can't admit it, right? Because that would admit the New York Times article was wrong. And, you know, the UFO community has a hard time being wrong, and it's like, we need to be okay with being wrong. That's right, but, but, if you are a UFO guru, right? And I use that word, it like sparingly, yeah, air quotes guru, you are Elizondo, and you are sharing pictures of craft and but, but then hiding behind the guise of, well, I didn't vet it. I didn't, I didn't. I mean, that's like coming into the teacher and saying, Hey, here's my homework, but I copied it off of him, so therefore I'm not really responsible for it. So if it's bad, just so you know that wasn't me fucking talking about you. It's literally a research report with zero bibliography, and he's standing

S

Speaker 1 36:37

S

Speaker 3 36:42

up in front of serious people, yeah, serious people who, yeah, who now are stuck in between this, because the UFO community is eating him alive right now. But there are the defenders, yeah,

S

Speaker 1 36:57

I, hey, I'll, I'll defend him. But it's one of those, like we did a whole episode whenever the whenever that picture dropped with Mike turber from five by five news, our intelligence guy and security specialist. And it was one of those, like, Hey, Mike, at what point do you stop vetting information from your vetted source? And I was like, don't get me wrong, like, I trust you, Mike turber, and I'll typically take whatever you give me in a knee jerk fashion, but I'm definitely going to follow it up with looking for more things. Yeah, I'm definitely going to follow because it took, it took the guy from black vault, like it took Greenwald from black vault, like, five minutes to one one search, one minute. Yeah, yeah, I

S

Speaker 3 37:39

swear. And, then, you know what? What really baffles me, yeah, is that it's almost and, you know, if I'm the only one asking this, I have, you know, then call me crazy. I don't care. You know, half, half the people think I'm crazy talking about UFOs in the first place. So whatever, you know, call a legacy, but Kang is way more. You gotta ask yourself, how can he get it so blatantly wrong when he knows that it is going to be analyzed, it is going to be deep diving, diving into you. Are going to get scrutinized. People are going to grab this and they are going to, I mean, the internet community, the internet itself, has a way of of dissecting and investigating, and it's like the chandelier picture now this, and it's a couple other things, and you got to ask, how is the guy this credible? How is the guy this smart, making these mistakes unless he's meant to exactly, and that, that's what I keep bringing up, is in unless it's the fact that, or unless it's the fact, because I kind of feel the same way about Dr Greer, is I love his word. Did you hear the stuff lately? Oh my god, man,

S

Speaker 1 38:46

P

38:57

S

Speaker 1 38:59

I had, I had Kathleen Martin on and Earl Gray, I love her to I had them on back to back to respond to his allegations that her, her aunt and uncle's case was a case of my lab was, it was not an actual abduction. It was a case of the Air Force abducting them and implanting the memory like and listen. And I was

P

39:21

S

Speaker 1 39:24

like, Kathleen, would you like an opportunity to respond to this publicly? She probably just called him an idiot. Oh no, no. She she was very complimentary of his work. She was like, I think in the same thing, I said same thing. Or else, did you I think he has been fed misinformation by by people he trusts over the years in an effort to create rifts in the community.

P

39:48

All right, so

P

39:51

Did you see the Danny Jones stuff?

S

Speaker 3 39:55

I saw some, yeah, the recent episode of Danny Jones and I. Listen, if I'll send it to you, I'll send you the clip, but you might want to play it here, like here, if you can, because, bro, there is a paper trail that Dr Greer might not be a legitimate now, I don't know how true this part is, but because he really did work at that hospital. But there's, there's some evidence to suggest that not only is he embellishing about his, his his um rank and and his, his many years doing trauma surgery, but there's, there's a paper trail linking him to moussad. And I don't like to say that because, you know, I feel like Israel and you know that intelligence community are getting like they're getting bad, or lately, everything's getting blamed on them. So I, you know, I'm not trying to sound like that, but there's actual evidence to suggest that Dr Greer who but now I'll send it to you. It's gonna blow your mind. Yes, and he's never used anything of actual worth. Maybe others, a good one. Here it is. Here it is. I'm quick buddy. Maybe may not be something you want to put

S

Speaker 4 41:09

Emily and Steven Greer, uh, Haifa, Israel. Emily Kramer, thank you. Steven Greer, we're married. Nope. Ie World Center. The bride is the daughter of Miss Douglas Kramer of Palm Beach, Florida and the late Dr calmler crombler. She graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and received a master's degree. Shout out to Danny Jones by the Peace

S

Speaker 3 41:31

S

Speaker 4 41:35

Corps in Barbados. The the bride. Groom is the son of Mr. And Mrs. James Greer of 1201 Princeton Avenue. He attended the Appalachian State University and is employed in the Information Processing Department at bahi world center after a trip through Israel. The couple will live in Haifa and work at the Bahai World Center.

S

Speaker 5 42:04

Marriage notice behind was regarded as an intelligence gathering operation from Assad.

o

42:14

Look at Danny. You see him process it, yeah.

S

Speaker 5 42:18

And Stephen really worked for these people. And he worked for them. He started with those people.

S

Speaker 4 42:22

Then he got, this is before he was an emergency room doctor, you know, I've done a lot of research. Wow,

S

Speaker 1 42:27

wow. And that's just it, you know, even even things like this, I would, I would say whistleblower status, you know. And that's just it. It's one of those. I work in the world of corporate AV. And the example that I give regularly was, I used to be traveled to a show in DC every year that was inside. It was, it was a corporate it was an alphabet agency that oversees all the other alphabet agencies. We had four star generals, admirals, all kinds of things up on stage, launches sponsored by Lockheed Martin, stuff like that. I was traveled as the graphics operator. That's the guy that you normally like. Bring your PowerPoint up to and go, here's my presentation, bring it up on screen. We didn't have presentations anymore because of Edward Snowden. So, so it was one of those, like, wow. For like, five years, I was traveled in for this show, for a position that did nothing, nothing, because all of that stuff is compartmentalized and because of whistle blowing Edward Snowden now, like lives in Russia there, it's only place that will house him.

S

Speaker 3 43:40

And I want to make, I want to make something like super, super clear here, Dr Gregory, Rogers, NASA, Chief of Medicine, yep, chief flight surgeon, right? This guy, he did not go to dob sir, which is the DoD pre publication office, like many other quote, unquote whistleblowers, and we need to stop using that term. Matthew Brown, the immaculate constellation, I believe he even went to dob, sir, for the most part. But these people are going to DOD pre publication and saying what they're that is not a whistle blower. Let's make it very clear, the whistle blower, whether you like them or not, is Edward Snowden. It is people like Dr Gregory Rogers who are not getting approval by the DOD to become willingly or unwittingly a controlled disclosure agent, if you will, like the others. And I hate to say that it's sad, but it is true. And I mean, I will say that because I'm very good friends with with Dr John Hall, who writes a lot of books on targeted individuals and targeting technologies, things like that. He goes to dob sir before, because otherwise, like he'll literally lose his medical life. License man, like, he's still a practicing doctor, so, so he has to go to them to make sure that, like, he can talk about this technology without losing his medical license, that kind of stuff, right? And it's an actual place, and it is one of those, like, it's a gatekeeping organization, that's what it's there for, to keep the technologies and the programs under wraps, because if you touch on something, I if you touch on something that they do not want out there, the the it's like the old the the old Stanley Meyer story, right? Or just, I mean, when we want to go back to the 1950s and talk about the G engines and tea towns and brown and, yeah, you know what later was, you know, T Townsend Brown's work, you know, the G engines were right around the corner, and then all of a sudden, nothing, you know, they were they were saying, like the top scientists in that those areas were saying, we are this close to breaking gravity, and by 1955 and this is something Greer does talk about that I'm like, okay, yes, that's that. I do believe that to be the truth as well, that the technology was seized by what became the patent office, right? And that whole scheme, you know, the patent office is just a front for basically controlling technology and controlling technological advancement. Like there are. There have been many breakthroughs that have been put on the shelf because it would jeopardize, uh, income for the government and in the complex that they have built. So we know that that's, that's, that's what's happening. And if you aren't, you know, if you can't see that, then take a closer look, because there have been multiple patents that have been seized technologies. So I would say that, you know since, and if we look at these things and we start like zooming out, right? Clearly, the pressure is mounting, right? The pressure is mounting. People want answers to these questions. Congress, whether you like them or not, they're biting at the top as best they as best they can. There's some of them that are bought, some of them that you might not think are bought, that are bought. But for the most part, there is good intent around these, these, this topic, and bipartisan effort. So, you know, it's, again, it's, it's hard to say, like, it's hard, it's hard to be like, well, you know, should we trust these people that we've that basically lied to us for 80 plus years? Yeah, and that's what we're up against right now.

S

Speaker 1 44:43

S

Speaker 3 45:23

S

Speaker 1 47:38

Well, and, you know, with all the hearings and everything else, because my father's a boomer. He's an older guy, you know, he's talking about these little green men. What the hell you talking about? I'm like, hey, it's not good, because I say it on the show regularly. You are not going to see a pile of wreckage under it, under a tarp brought out onto the floor of Congress and a Houdini Aha, moment, that's that's not gonna happen, okay? But what you're gonna see eventually, through things like the grush testimony and stuff like that, where it's like, hey, my job was to follow the money, and when I followed it, eventually a door was slammed in my face. Eventually, I was like, are you okay? Let's say that you owned a McDonald's for the last 80 years, and you found out that your manager has been slowly leaking money for the last 50 into his own pocket. You're good with that, because that that's that's what we're finding out is that there are these dark programs, these there are these things that billions of dollars of money you're going to and we, the people, do not know about them. And eventually, yeah, I think we will end up with Not, not the pile of wreckage, but we'll end up with an Oliver North style fall guy who belongs to an alphabet agency or contractor thereof, and says, Yes, I'm here. We've been doing this. This is what we have, stuff like that. But you're not going to see like and all of that comes through legal means, without the good legal means of people like the Disclosure Project and stuff like that, who've been working for years. Steve Bassett, those kind of folks who've been working on the legal pathways in the background that that's where it's going to come from, because that's what, that's what we strong arm them with, you know, and I've seen,

S

Speaker 3 49:32

I've seen Steve's work up front, because, you know, when I went to the to the UFO, when I got so I got invited by Tim Burchett down to the hearing that they held in November. And yeah, and I got to see Basset work really closely, because I had a meeting with Nancy mace that night, and I conceded my time because I was going to interview her like, you know, just about the hearing. And, and I conceded my time so that Bob Salas could brief her on his scenario from 1967 the Malmstrom case. And Basset came in with us. And, you know, provided documentation, and provided all these, you know, a lot more that I had so that, you know, he had files and, you know, basically briefings. And, I mean, the guy's a and I'm introducing him at contact in the desert. Nice, nice, awesome. It's, it's going to be really fun. It's going to, sorry, there's idiot. That's, you're good, you're good. Leaves right next door.

50:41

I have amazing technologies that'll get rid of that. So don't worry, he doesn't Well, the thing is, and I wouldn't be like, ah, you know, he's blowing leaves, but he does it every day, every I'm not joking, every day he's blowing. I'm like, What? What are you blowing? We all have our nervous ticks. Tyler

Speaker 3 50:44

50:57

50:59

Just clean, dude,

Speaker 1 51:02

but, but in sincerity, it's one of those, like, there are good people, like, like the doctor out there who are putting their career on the line to come forward with this information. There. There are some good whistleblowers out there that are doing some great work, that are really exposing a lot of things that I think will, yes, eventually expose the underbelly of these things. Because, yeah, it's, it's one of those, like, I'm involved in the remote viewing community. And people, people regularly say, like, oh, you know it was, it was the funding was canceled because it wasn't found to work. It's like, oh no, no, the funding was canceled. And what happens, as with most programs and technologies, once they are found to work and do well, they disavow them and they give them to their contractors, because then they can say, we absolutely do not use remote viewing. We use human and human gathered intelligence, things like that, from our contractors, all that kind of stuff. Their contractors are using remote viewers as part of their intelligence gathering, but then they get to say that they aren't, you know, plausible deniability, yeah, and it's

52:08

S

Speaker 1 52:10

the same thing with all these technologies, because, yes, they have been recovered. They have been put into the hands of contractors. Billions capital B, billions, have been put into reverse engineering them and applying them eventually. The only way you make that money back is putting it on a shelf. Tyler, yeah, eventually, or monetizing or militarizing it one of the three, one we look at, let's look at it as, I mean, Edison. You had Edison and you had Tesla right now, Edison's was the inferior product. However, you could tap it, yeah, you could tap it, and you could put a meter on it, and JP Morgan Chase would only invest or, you know, it was set up. Yeah, it was, it was a total setup. And he went with the inferior option, because he he wouldn't be able to make money off of what Tesla was working on, because you could, that was free energy. Yeah,

S

Speaker 3 52:33

S

Speaker 1 53:11

Tesla didn't want to make money off of it. You didn't want to make money. He was just like, it's there, though. Why would you, why would you go through all that process when you can just gather it and everybody gets it.

S

Speaker 3 53:23

That can't be, that can't be how it is. And now we're looking at, we're looking down the same barrel of the gun, the same the same barrel just, you know, a different caliber bullet with oil and, you know, petroleum and and, and these natural gasses when there are clearly the inferior product towards gravity, or, you know, anti gravity, gravity craft. But you can't put a meter. You can't sell oil, you know, you can't, you you can't sell the, I mean, whatever the the anti propulsion, gravity, whatever it is, you can't, you'll never be able to have a constant revenue stream with that. And it's very clear that that's what's happening. And you know, guys like Dr Gregory Rogers can attest to the fact that there are some sort of reverse engineering program because, I mean, what he saw, and what I think is one of the biggest details that's being missed is that this had a US Air Force emblem on it. That's right, right, yeah, right, yeah. And it had the the test markings on it. Because if you've ever seen a test craft, there's usually these weird black rectangles on them. And I don't know what they he explained what they did, or what they're for. I think it's for, like, radar, yeah, you know when they're filming it, to be able to track it. But those were there. It had all the features of a test craft, but it was a flying saucer, and it really, I know he won't say it, but for people who want to visualize it, picture this, what the sports model and what Bob Lazar talks about. It's very. Very similar to that and to what I saw the flying saucer, the classic one, yeah, yeah. And so yeah, especially having those markings on it. Those markings are all for like so that you can break down the speed on high speed cameras and stuff like that though that so that you can break down the speed on high speed cameras and stuff like that, though, that those are all tracking markers for that kind of stuff, so that you can get a lapsed distance and speed and that kind of right.

S

Speaker 1 55:05

S

Speaker 3 55:24

That's right. Thank you. Yeah. So, you know, like busters.

P

55:31

I used to love that show, but, you know, I don't want to spoil, I don't really want to spoil, spoil his testimony for anyone. So I won't get into the whole thing, but I was approached pretty early on, you know, if you want to know the story, as I was approached pretty early on in this process. I think, you know, I think Mindy tau fest, who, who kind of revived the bureau in its current form, she saw something in me, absolutely, yeah, that others, you know, have maybe overlooked, people like Earl, you know, people like Mindy, they they see something there. And I was approached pretty early on, and it was funny because, you know, I was going to be there at the same time Josh Boswell was there, but I was unable to do that. So Josh had the kind of the scoop, if you will. And you know, I essentially said, let's let the bigger outlet take lead on it, because that will get it spread out farther. Sure the reach will be bigger if the Daily Mail puts it out, then if I put it out, and then, you know, what we'll do is we'll come in after and say, you know, here's our exclusive interview with that same person, and it worked really well over millions of impressions, really, really high click through rate, yeah. And I know people don't really understand that, but we had a we had a lot of engagement with it over, over all the different platforms. So and I was reached out to by a member of Congress to to learn more branded. So I can't talk too much on that aspect of it, but Dr Rogers was shown a video, closed caption television. I don't want to get into much of the specifics, but

S

Speaker 3 55:35

P

57:15

P

57:19

S

Speaker 1 57:21

no, go, watch the video. You want specifics? Folks?

S

Speaker 3 57:24

Yeah, yeah, yeah. Because, I mean, what he saw is pretty amazing, but yeah, you know, he's the chief. What I really want to stress is he's the chief of medicine for NASA overseas. Over 180 astronauts for the years he's there. They knew him more, much better than he knew them. When you're overseeing 180 plus people you know in doing routine lead checkups. You know, you remember them, but you know, it's, it's, it's, it's that doctor relationship everybody, if you ever been in the military, and you've had that, that relationship with anybody in the military, you you know, it's a lot of single serving, single serving encounters, yeah, and maybe that's not the right word for it, but there's a lot of gear turning in the military, and the not air, you know, NASA and those kind of environments. So that being said, one of the one of the privates, or I think it was a private Forgive me if I miss, miss saying that, but someone pulled someone pulled him into the office and showed him something that he probably shouldn't have seen. He definitely shouldn't have seen but, and I don't want to go into like, the specifics of why, because I think that's a really fascinating part of it is that he was never supposed to see this, and the fact that he did, you know, obviously, you know. Want to say, Right place, right time. I look at it more like divine intervention, to some degree, because, you know, now he, he's been waiting 33 years to tell this story, and there's a big, big detail, like I said, with that us, Air Force emblem. Because for many years, the UFO community is like, oh, you know, there's no Russian flag on the UFO. There's no like, you know, we see these things, and they have no markings of any country. Well, now we have one that we know had a marking of a country, and it was the US Air Force. And that's not to say every UFO is, is man made. That's not true. The technology clearly came from somewhere else, and he the person that showed him the video. When Dr Rogers asked, Where did we get this, he just pointed up. Wow, that's it. Wow, incredible.

S

Speaker 1 59:52

And what an incredible story, not only your own personal story and journey to how you got. At this point with media. How you, how you came to this point of involvement in the UFO, UAP community, Tyler, but also, yeah,

S

Speaker 3 1:00:07

sorry, I definitely talk a lot. It's okay. No, that's, that's what it's about, man, that's what we're here for. It's all good. All good.

P

1:00:12

S

Speaker 1 1:00:16

I love this, though, yeah, oh no. Exactly same here, and it's one of those, like the the idea of being able to even be a part of the bringing forth of a whistleblower in that kind of way. The idea of being able to help bring the truth to light in that kind of way is fantastic. And what an incredible opportunity for you and total disclosure, what an incredible bomb of a drop, once again, coming out of the gate for the International UFO Bureau and the bravery of Doctor. Gregory Rogers, this is just the beginning. That's right. That's right, absolutely,

1:00:49

Speaker 1 1:00:52

man, beginning. Thank you so much for the time tonight. It's been fantastic. It's been amazingly awesome. Great. Great spending some time with you outside of a Zoom meeting for maybe next time, maybe, you know, next time we do something we can, kind of, you know, now that we've got the formalities out of the way, if you will, next time we could, you know, I'd love to dive deep into, like, Oh yeah, you know, certain topics, or maybe even certain cases, if, like, that's something you absolutely no,

Speaker 3 1:01:02

Speaker 1 1:01:19

no, I'm, I'm I'm all about that. I love having other hosts on and especially, especially tackling issues in the community. That is, that is a big one for me, that I don't think a lot of a lot of shows really pay attention to, is, how do we, how do we curate the community? How do we support each other? How do we support experiencers and whistleblowers and keep the truth capital T out there, you know. And here's, here's the thing, you know, one of the one, one of the things about UFO community, and that I was gonna say earlier, thank you. If there's one message that maybe I can leave people with, aside from going, you know, check out the UFO bureau. Check it out. Total disclosure. Also be at contact in the desert. I'm introducing a lot of great people, including Chris blood. So I'll be introducing nice so, you know, that's, that's a huge one for me. I can't wait. But definitely, you know, you know, report your sightings at the International Year field bureau. I think it's Bureau the next big thing in, you know, investigation data analysis, as well as, you know, just having a place in a community, I think it's going to be what move on was, was supposed to be. And, you know, I know people don't like to talk bad about Move on. Move funds, a great organization, but, yeah, I think there's, there's a lot more tools that could be used. And I think the bureau is more inclined to be able to use those so if we stop giving credibility, if we stop giving people the benefit of the doubt who have voice or resumes, like Dr Gregory Rogers, if we, if we Don't, at least hear those types of people out, then what are we doing? That's right, what does it become? Yeah, no, exactly. And that's even the tagline of this show on the next time is you know, thank you for everything. Thank you for your open hearts, your way out every time is, you know, thank you for your time. I thank you for your open hearts, your open minds. That's what makes the conversation, and without the conversation, humanity does not march forward. We don't. We don't move forward without that, without the understanding of, hey, you ask somebody what they think or believe, you don't have to try to change their paradigm after hearing it absolutely. You could just accept what they believe, prima facia, because it's what they believe. You know, it doesn't have to be an argument. You don't have to be right, because frequently we end up being wrong far down the road, you know, and it's okay to be wrong. It is it really, it's, you know, what? We're dealing with, the most complex phenomena that's right, if anyone's telling you got, they got the secret sauce and a PayPal link, turn the other way and run right, yeah, because no one knows what's going on, not really. And, you know, we're we need to be humble and open absolutely to to disagreement, because disagreement breeds advancement. That's right.

Speaker 3 1:01:43

Speaker 1 1:03:04

S

Speaker 3 1:03:51

S

Speaker 1 1:04:15

That's right. And, and, you know that is, that is the whole point of science. You know, there's, there is a ton of science that is laying on the floor because that's what a red team is supposed to do. You're supposed to poke holes in it till the bubble don't float anymore,

S

Speaker 3 1:04:30

make as many mistakes so that when it does succeed,

S

Speaker 1 1:04:33

you know it didn't fail. That's right, yeah, that's right. Exactly, exactly.

1:04:38

This was amazing, man. Thank you so much. You're

S

Speaker 1 1:04:41

You're welcome, and thank you for your time once again, hold the hold the line real quick while we close things out with the audience, while you are online, checking out everything from total disclosure over at YouTube, as well as their website, total disclosure.org make sure to stop. On by the IFO UB website, international UFO bureau.com is where you can find them. That is where you can join as well. They will have their reporting function up. Oh so soon. So yeah, international UFO bureau.com forward slash join, is where you can go to join there. Stay tuned through this quick commercial break, everybody. We will be right back with our good friend and researcher, Kathleen ball. We will be discussing the world of Knights Templar, and specifically

Templar cave in Brazil, how she came to find it, and the research that it has led her down since we will be right back after this, folks, the key to good science is good research. At the heart of good research is a good data set with the field observation and encounter log from Curious Research, you can easily keep track of your investigative information all in one place, making it easier to review cases and readily see comparisons and contrasts between them, whether out in the woods, squatting in a back room Gathering EVPs or using high tech gear to track UFO, UAP activity. This easy to carry pocket sized scientific data log is the perfect companion for any field researcher. You can find your copy of the Curious Research field observation and encounter log@amazon.com or visit the official curious realm store at curious realm.com forward slash store to reserve your copy for yourself, your family or a mind that you want to open that website again is curious realm.com. Forward slash store you Well, hello everybody, and thank you for holding on through that quick commercial break. Also, thank you so much to our sponsors, especially true hemp science. If you are a CBD user like I am, true hemp science is your source for amazing CBD products with a full spectrum of CBD benefits, including terpene profiles. Stop on by truhim science today. Truhim science.com is the website that you want to visit. Christopher Lynch here in Austin, Texas, makes this product using this by direct process where every part of the plant is used, reused, everything from Sims, seeds, buds, leaves, roots, every part of the plant is used, reused, combusted and reused until nothing remains, providing a full spectrum CBD product, complete with pro terpene profiles and all Stop on by true him science today, truehim science.com is the website that you want to go to. Period seven is the code that you want to use to save 7% off your entire cart of $50 or more. Our guest in this segment is the amazing Kathleen ball. She is the creator of the Brazilian Templar mystery, and she currently has episode two of the Brazilian Templar ministry coming out. This is an amazing Docu series about the Knights Templar visiting Brazil and a cave that she found during her course of research, all kinds of things. The first episode in the series came out, I guess, a couple years ago, and it's an amazing story, Kathleen, even, even the way that you came to find this cave. Welcome back to the show. It's been a long time since we've had you on,

S

Speaker 6 1:09:16

but it's great to be back. I really, yeah, great to be back. And I've been busy. Yeah, yeah. As usual, I'm, I'm boots on the ground, you know, I've been out there doing research, and I, I went to Portugal twice last year, and London and France, and backtracking clues. I We are in the next episode, episode two that's coming out, which I'm really excited about in June. June 22 it's going to show at the film festival theater in Sedona, Arizona. So anyone who is in the area or wants to fly into that event, it will pre me. Here at that theater, and we're going to be focusing on in this film. What we focused on was the interior of the cave. We're doing some, you know, a lot of close ups of the symbolism in the cave, and also what the cave actually is, we had a couple of uses. We're going to talk about that. I'm not going to spoil it for anybody. But what we discovered the cave actually was used for and how those symbols relate to other symbols throughout Europe, in Templar locations that date all the way back to 1040 from 1040 to 1090 in a very small town called atubo in Portugal, which is adjacent to what is now tenish, which is a coastal town. And those during that time frame, it was actually an island separated from the mainland, but it's got panic is now, you know, part of the mainland, but we also suspect, we believe that panic was the port that they were leaving from to go to Brazil. We have pretty good evidence that we're building a case for that right now. We found two commanderies. We found that the the history of panic includes every single Admiral that in the Portuguese Navy has been has lived in finish and from the Century all the way up to the 15th, yeah, 15th and 16th century. So we have, we have good reason to suspect that panic or the Azores Islands were where they launched their ships to go back and forth to Portugal. And now I have become convinced they were not only, not only did they go once and establish they were going back and forth between Brazil and very probably Peru as well, in bringing back gold and silver from both of these countries. And this is why the king in Portugal, King Dennis, during the time of the suppression of the order in 1307 to 1312, was the only monarch in all of Europe that had any money. Yeah, the rest of them had spent all the money on the Crusades, yeah, and they were broke. One of the motivators for for King Philip the fair to suppress the order and refill his coffers. So, you know, so we know, you know England was broke. We know that all of the countries were relatively broke after these Crusades were over in 1290 So anyway, the king Dennis was not and we believe that you know that the kings in Portugal were privy to and kept this as a state secret where the location was of this port, protected it, and were aligned with the Templars going back and forth in travel. And I think they were aligned with all of the Templar travels. I think the kings of Portugal were well informed

S

Speaker 1 1:13:18

well. And you know the fact that the the Templars had an amazing Navy, and were were amazing seafarers themselves as something is lost on a lot of their history. You don't really hear about it a whole lot, but, but what was their connection to having a naval background? Because, once again, it would take a lot and even in Armada, to get across the ocean to places like Peru, Brazil, things like that. That is not like a simple one ship trip to make that happen. You know exactly. So, you know, we're pretty sure at this point it did obtain the Phoenician boat building records, and, you know, ship building records, and also maps that from the Holy Land and also in from in Constantinople, what many people don't know. And Timothy Hogan is also talking about this. He's the Grand Master for the Knights Templar here, you know, in the United States, all over, actually, on the Nazi border. And he's also talking about the fact that the Templars originated long before 1118, which is the official date that they became stamped by the Catholic Church, yeah, Templar, right, and that they had actually, I found evidence of the Templars in Greece. I found evidence of the Templars in in Turkey. And Timothy corroborated with me on that, and said, yes, in fact, that they had been in Greece first. First, probably as early as somewhere between 10 1040 and 1060 we don't know exact dates on that, but there is evidence there that they were there also then they went into Constantinople in they were definitely present there between 1090 and the turn of the century. So we know that they were searching out the esoteric, the mystery schools, and all the esoteric knowledge and wisdom that they could get their hands on. So between, you know, and then later, of course, after 1096, then we know that they were present in the Holy Land and that they were given the, you know, the area of these, the stables above the Temple Mount, where the remains of the Temple Mount were, yeah, and that they were excavating for nine years. We know this that the original knights, the core of the Knights, Templar members, were excavating underneath the Temple Mount, which which had been the location of the Temple Mount, and that they were they eventually brought this stuff back into Europe, and then we believe that it was probably taken into Portugal for safe keeping until the Inquisition came in in the 1500s they finally got their way into Portugal, which they had been trying to do for centuries, and dismantled everything. I mean, they just, it was a reign of terror in Portugal at that time when they did that. And then at that point, you know, we believe that this, this cash, treasure, was transferred into Scotland and eventually came over to United States. It's not in Oak Island. I want to make sure that everybody understands that it's not in Oak Island. I personally don't believe there's anything in Oak Island anymore. I think it was already gone long ago to fight the civil, you know, the War of Independence. Honestly, that's what I believe. Yeah, happened. But, you know, the manuscripts and the squirrels and those things are just as important for Templar historians and for the for the world, because it's the truth is finally coming. It's finally being serviced. We're finally seeing facts, you know, that had been suppressed for hundreds of years, with seven, almost what was between seven and 800 years. Now this, this information has been suppressed. And I also, of course, I uncovered a strategic, a strategic. There is no other way to, you know, to describe it, agenda by the Catholic Church sending out their Jesuit priests to murder Templars and Templar families and anyone who was even related to the Templars all through South America and most parts of The world, they were going out and they were murdering these families. I have, you know, I've seen books and documentation of this, so, you know, they were responsible for the suppression of volumes and volumes and volumes of records and everything that we would have loved to have gotten our hands on, you know, in terms of Templar history, and you know, what they were doing and what wasn't destroyed, the Templars themselves, and Templar families hid or they destroyed themselves, you know, yeah, because they didn't want to be identified, you know, because they didn't want their family members murdered, and they didn't want to die themselves, you know. So what's happening in Portugal, which is really interesting, and also in some other countries, is some of this history, now that it's relatively safer, is starting to surface, and I've been privy to some in in Portugal, some family records that that talk about their answer having been Templars and their travels. So we're starting to get some really, really, you know, interesting information is starting to surface. And I'm excited. I'm really excited about that. I'm going to be, you know, taking my third, true third trip to Portugal. Um, it's coming up this summer, and I'm going to combine it with my English. I'd be doing a lecture in England, by the way, at the Atlantis bookstore in August. And I'm going to combine my Portugal trip with that, and I have another area that I'm going to be researching, and also some more of these family records, which I'm very excited about. So well, that is great, because, I mean, you know,

S

Speaker 6 1:14:05

1:19:54

Speaker 1 1:19:58

number one, the. The records of families, things like that. Europe had fantastic record keeping when it came to these things. America was fascinating. Like even recently, my uncle did some family research into our family, and started going to a few heritage sites and things like that, and looking things up. And there was apparently somebody who just, like popped up out of nowhere, just like bling. It's like, wow. Somebody decided to reinvent themselves whenever they came over, you know, like, there's just like nothing. It's just like a dead stop, you know, but, but when you get over to Europe, when you get over to England, things like that. These, these records are immaculately kept, because at that point, literal familial lines and their their connections to crown and kingdom and things like that, counted on this stuff. So it was, it was immensely important to keep proper records. And that was probably more than any other order, yes, and one of the reasons this, one of the reasons for that is in my book, my new book that I'm writing now, the Templar agenda. The Templars were, you know, they had, in sort of infiltrated and gotten themselves close to every single monarchy in there. And they were, they were involved as bankers, as counselors, as mediators. And, you know, they, they canceled the monarchs in war, in, you know, land disputes, just, you name it. They are. They were highly respected and and they were involved in everything. So of course, we're going to find records from these countries about the Templars and but the two full reason for this, what they had created in Portugal, what I've come to discover, what they created in Portugal was a sovereign nation of harmony. They had they had Christians, they had Catholics, they had Jews, they had Islam, they had druids, they had Cathars. They rescued the Cathars from France during that whole you know, that her heretical war, that the church, you know, when they were, when they were arresting and murdering the Cathars, the Templars. But they were related family, had family relations with these people, with the Cathars. So they had all of these religious, economic, cultural backgrounds of all these people, of all these different backgrounds, all living in Portugal in harmony and functioning perfectly, just fine. I mean, everything was going well, and this is one of the reasons why the Catholic Church wanted so bad to break, get, get into Portugal and break through their defenses so they could destroy that but the Templars were, they were, this must have been, it must have been incredibly difficult the way they balanced their relationship with the Catholic Church, because here they are hired by the Catholic Church to be Crusaders. And they did devote a very large in fact, the majority of their members to the Crusaders as soldiers to fight over there for the church. But at the same time, right under their nose, they've created this sovereign nation, philandos, right? And what they were hoping to do is bring about a sort of renaissance of all of these esoteric beliefs and this knowledge that they had discovered this was their true agenda, and to bring their use the template that they had created into Portugal, use that as a template throughout the world, country by country by country. So this is another reason why they were so close to the monarchs and the nobles in all of these countries, because this was their intention, was to bring about duplicate what they had created in Portugal in all of these other countries in the world, and to have a world of equality so that we could move forward with our evolutionary progression as a united world, you know, not this stuff that we're dealing with today, with all these wars and we're constantly battling each other. You know, what they envisioned was a world, a sovereign world of equality with, you know, the different religions and the different cultural backgrounds and economic backgrounds, etc, etc, but this is what they wanted to put forward, and this is still the agenda today. So of the current Templars, you know, this still their agenda today. So this is what I'm talking this is what I'm writing about now in my second book. Because I think. This is really important, especially given the political atmosphere that we're dealing with, not just here in the United States, but in many other countries in the world right now. I mean, we're dealing with some difficult situations, so I think it's important to remember, and also what many people don't know is that the Templars, when they did go underground in 1307, they had already been involved in Scotland, and they were, you know, working with Robert the Bruce. They were working on their Magna Carta. They had a hand in the Magna Carta, which eventually was used as a foundation for the United States, the independence of the United States of America. And our articles up, you know, Independence over here. So you know, if you want to, if you really want us to look at the base and the foundation for the United States of America, look at the Templars, because they were the ones that inspired what we originally had here in the United States of America, a country that's this big, this big sovereign country with all of these multiple nationalities. This was the primary purpose and the original purpose of the United States of America, where we could embrace people from all walks of life, all backgrounds here in the United States and live harmoniously, yeah, and that was the original point. So we've, you know, this is, this is what we have had for 200 years. Oh, well, yeah, yeah. And you know, once again, to echo that back to the control of ruling families, things like that, and the connection of the Knights Templar to those ruling families once especially when you're talking about ruling families, specifically in Italy, things like that, the medic cheese, the doges of Venice, that kind of stuff. Their reach went far, far and wide, not only in the church, but but within, within the halls outside of that, within the halls of governments, within the halls of things like the Knights Templar, because it was not only a point of honor for any family to have a son or a relative that was a monk or something like that to begin with or a priest, it was a it was a huge badge of honor for A family, much less to have a son that was a knight or served in the military in that kind of way, if you have a monk knight in your family, or a knights temp or a Knight Templar like that was, that was the ultimate badge of honor as far as A ruling family went. So yeah, how did that play out, especially their royal connections, things like that, throughout various families in Europe. How did that play out with their escape and their survival?

S

Speaker 1 1:26:41

S

Speaker 6 1:28:16

Well, they they were able to because, you know, they did come from the Knights themselves took a vow poverty, but they were connected to very wealthy family and very well connected families, and so during the time in the suppression, you know, it wasn't, it wasn't difficult to hide family members. And you know, many of them became stonemasons, as we know, they continued with the building skills that they had, you know, building all the cathedrals in Europe and everything else. I mean, we know that they went into that trade many, many, many of the Templars did that. We also know from evidence in Brazil that they actually moved to Brazil and that they married into the indigenous cultures there in Brazil, probably also in Peru. I would love, I would just give my it to be able to do DNA testing in certain areas of Brazil and Peru, because I would bet you anything that we have DNA from Templar families from Europe. Now I know for a fact I've uncovered, there's a man named Matt McGregor that I've become I'm working with a little bit on history. He has a Templar descendant in his the McGregor clown, whose name was Duncan McGregor, but without what was interesting about Duncan is Duncan was born, or he died, excuse me, he died in a 1292 and he had an interesting appellation. He was called Duncan Maseo McGregor. Now must say, Oh. Refers to a body of water. And which is interesting, though, is it's not only a Portugal, Portuguese, Appalachian and word, but it's also a Brazilian temp Portuguese is the Brazilian speak Portuguese, but it's a little different, but it also that particular word is used in Brazil, so we have reason to believe that his family members may have been some and the same, you know, one in the same that had traveled, that had actually traveled to Brazil. Why he would have a Portuguese, and specifically a Brazilian Portuguese, middle Appalachian name that was given to him is, is really pretty good evidence that, you know, that he had it definitely affiliation. I mean, they're definitely kind of affiliation. So, so what we think is that the families were, they were, you know, obviously the Templar families were welcoming. And their their Templar, you know, descendant, their children, their cousins, their sisters, their brothers, their fathers, their husbands, etc, back into the fold and, you know, and shuffling them into society, however, they could do that, you know. And then again, like I said, we found, we found evidence of them being in India. We found evidence of them being possibly even in Japan. There was some other research that I'm starting that will be part of the next five series on the Templars travel. I'm finding them all over the world. Chris, I mean, these, there's evidence of Templars all over the world. And we know that. We know from, in fact, from, you know, from Scott Walter and Timothy Hogan's research, that the Templars were also here in the United States of America, and, yeah, North America as early as the 13/14, century. So,